RTI — A Challenge to Accomplish

Directions 1979

Robeson Technical Institute

Lumberton, N.C.

RTI

To talk,
To laugh,
To express emotion.

To observe,
exchange ideas, understand.

To consider opinion openly, carefully, respectfully.

To solve problems.

To share knowledge,
a joke,
a secret.

Communicating through books, music, glances,

in classes,
between classes.

A Challenge to Communicate

S.G.A. representatives and officers meet to discuss spring activities.

Nurses assistants show attention and concern for the well-being of a patient during their work at Wesley Pines.

Mr. Lawson listens attentively to an instructor's comments during faculty meeting.

Instructor Charles Clapper communicates the relative comfort of donating blood to the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

For General Ed students concentration during their meeting with psychology tutor Judy Lennon reaped benefits.

After the formal classroom atmosphere, the moment of release sparks communication.

Gatherings

Students listen seriously to the promises of campaign speeches.

Promote Student Communications

Communication Occurs

Filling in on the RTI switchboard, Nancy McGirt provides off-campus communication.

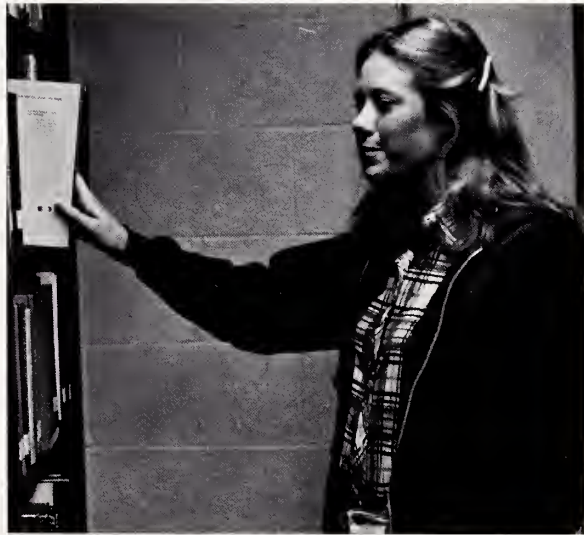

Through her daughter's doll collection, instructor Ann Revels tells about dress customs of other lands.

Even in Solitude

Modern communications procedures require mastery of machines.

The RTI library provides a wealth of communication.

Successful RTI students learn the necessity of printers' ink communication.

RTI

To design,
To build,
To express feelings uniquely, personally, skillfully.

To make the environment more attractive, more pleasant,
more satisfying.

Creating
with involvement, with pleasure,
with joy.

A Challenge to Create

Dances provide opportunity for creative movement.

David Moore admires a sign made in the shop while Willie Locklear works on a jewelry box.

Mrs. Wilkins arranges a display of artifacts on loan from the Native American Resource Center at Pembroke State University.

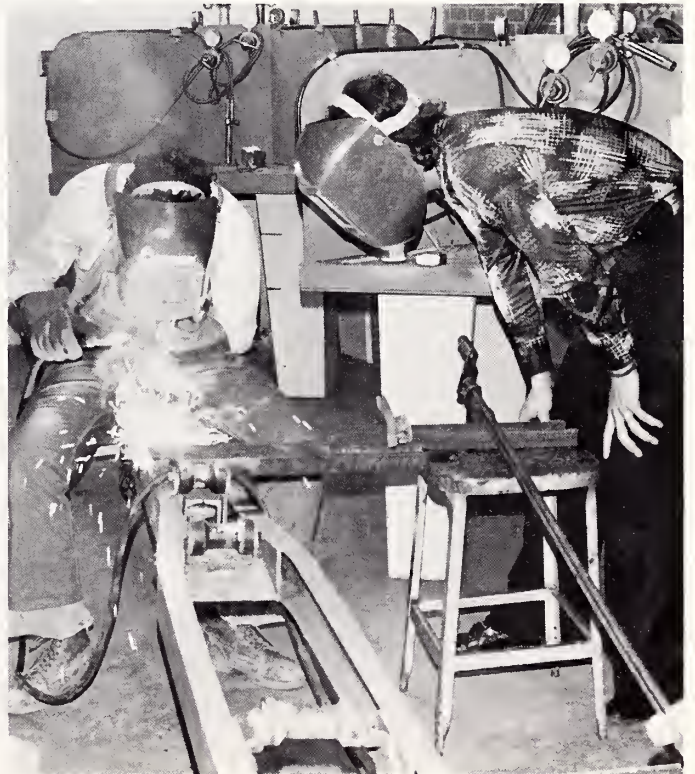

Spencer Burleson, Artist-in-Residence, introduced many RTI students to the beauty of the classical guitar.

Diane Edge works to create an attractive style for a patron.

Billy Hammonds and James Sutton weld an arm onto a boat trailer.

RTI

A Challenge to Achieve

To reach a goal,
To gain recognition,
To lasso a star.

To stand out proudly,
To see the results of striving and feel satisfaction,
To admire a job well done.

Achieving through hard work, self-denial, determination

For Coke-drinking contest participants, the thrill of victory may be hard to stomach.

Christine Bullard, Tammy Smith and Naomi Dial are motivated to succeed on a daily assignment.

Margie Oxendine concentrates as she strives to create a fine product.

The desire to better previous performances keeps pinball machines busy in the student lounge.

Many Achieve Their Goals;

At RTI the challenge to achieve begins with the registration line, but in the graduation line thoughts turn to the challenges ahead.

Instructors Pauline McNair, Joan Bissell and Ellen Warwick display teaching awards they received from the students.

Some Excel

Deloris Vazquez proudly accepts a reward for achieving the highest scholastic average among practical nursing students in 1977-78.

Mary Ann Furnage was nominated to Who's Who among police science students in American junior colleges.

Pat Faircloth, Marion Jackson and Randall Blue, electrical installation students, were recognized during 1977-78 graduation ceremonies for outstanding scholarship.

RTI

To encourage,
To motivate,
To understand.

To discover a problem,
find a solution,
get the ball rolling.

Go guide others
with consideration, with reliability,
with care.

Leading proudly, vigorously, successfully.

A Challenge to Lead

Dr. Allen presents the gavel representing the S.G.A. presidency to George Strickland.

Students interested in holding S.G.A. offices offer their leadership talents.

English instructor Elaine Whitfield explains a point about grammar to her General Office Technology students.

Business Administration students Tammy Rowell and Shari Freeman study to prepare themselves for positions of leadership.

Mr. Lawson, Dean of Degree and Diploma Programs, discusses spring quarter scheduling with Mr. Morris.

Cosmetology Club

After beginning the year with an officer installation ceremony, the Cosmetology Club was kept busy with many activities. On a three-day visit to Winston-Salem, the students went to a trade show. Later they visited a supply manufacturer in Charlotte. A special outing to Fayetteville Technical Institute gave students a chance to see a demonstration in an advanced hairstyling class. Other opportunities to learn were provided by visiting artists who demonstrated new styles in cutting and styling.

Two service projects were supported by funds from spring candy sales: supplies were donated to the Cancer Institute and both equipment and supplies were given to the extended care facility at Southeastern General Hospital. Students enjoyed the opportunity to provide services to patients in these institutions.

Officers: (seated) Beth Lester, president; (standing) Dale Lane, treasurer; Robin Bullard, historian; Gail Brewer, secretary; Carla Thompson, vice-president.

Installation of officers took place at a special dinner held at The Village Station.

Student Government Association

RTI

To wait upon,
To do a favor,
To lend a helping hand.

To give encouragement, advice,
consideration.
To build morale,
To lend guidance.

To prepare the way,
provide support,
pass on knowledge,
a skill,
an art.

Serving proudly, willingly, cheerfully.

A Challenge to Serve

Mrs. Luther Britt, Jr. tutors student Bhupendra Shah in basic English language skills while director of tutoring Katherine Martin looks on.

Alice Wilkins, librarian, assists William Patterson in locating reference materials.

Mrs. Carol Gnaidek serves hungry students who line up daily at the snack bar.

Masonry students, Herbert Oxendine, Moses McDuffie, and Billy Jacobs, receive directions from their instructor, Mr. Collie Brown, as they work on the welcome sign that they built for the Town of Pembroke.

Some Serve Within;

Alton Inman and Larry McArthur prepare to help Carolyn Brown tune up a patron's car.

Instructor Jean Johnson helps nurses assistant student Louise Miles provide care for a Wesley Pines patient.

Others Reach Out

Kenneth Wilson, Coordinator for Handicapped Persons, proudly displays the chart showing that buildings on campus are accessible to the handicapped.

Mary Francis Burns, Student Services secretary, prepares for winter quarter registration.

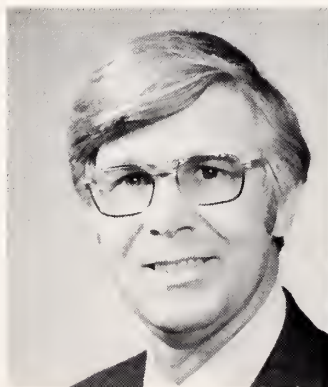

Students, administration, faculty and staff serve the campus in distinctive but interdependent ways.

President Allen and the Board of Trustees

A Challenge to Grow

To develop,
To fulfill,
To mature.

To improve skills, reasoning human relations.

To increase knowledge for pleasure, for pride,
for practicality.

To accomplish the difficult slowly, steadily.

Growing — learning new roles, forming new relationships, preparing for the future.

Informal gatherings give students, such as Jerry Lowery, Ann Furrage, and Harold Hunt, a chance to continue class discussion informally.

Students sharpen reasoning and observation skills in a quick card game.

Dances bring close encounters of the communicating kind.

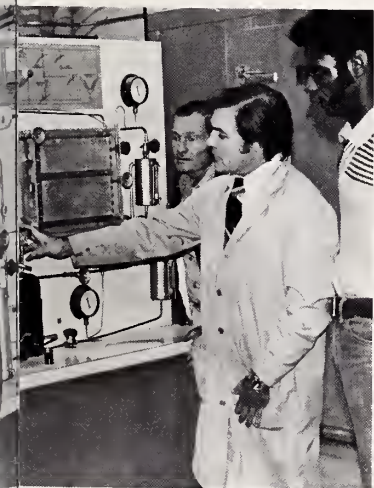

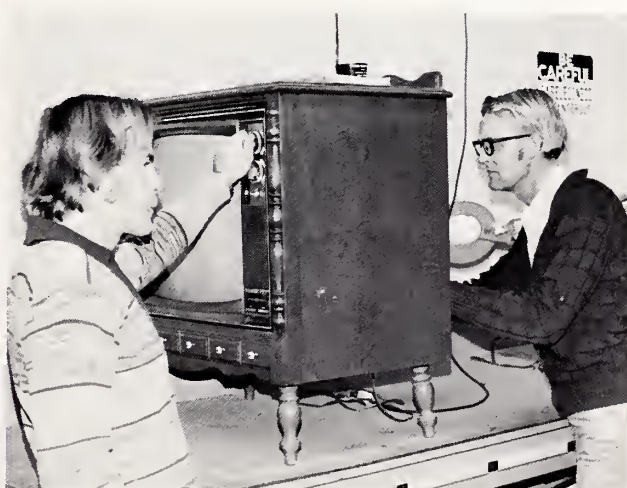

Amando Sweat rewires a lamp.

Vickie Tyndall takes advantage of the wide selection of periodicals available in the library.

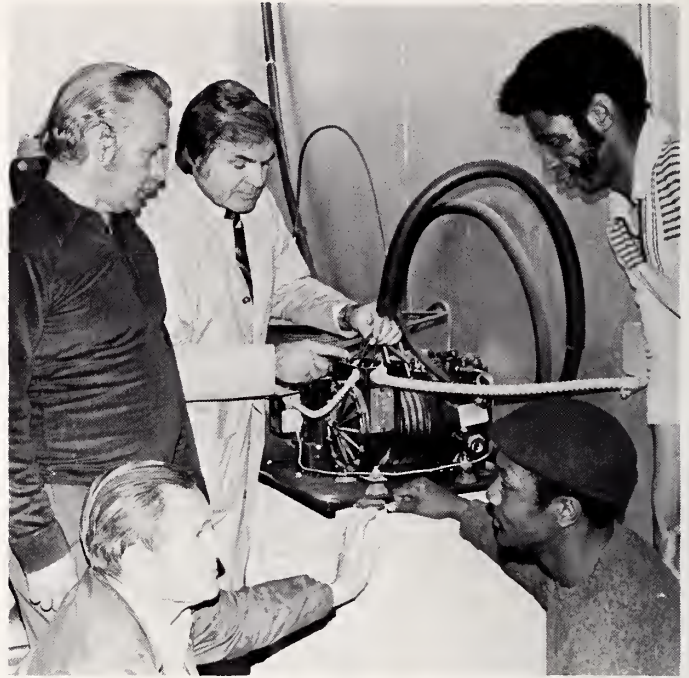

Mr. Clapper points out the function of the control on a mock-up of a heat pump.

Randy Russ and Raymond Buchanan service a TV in the shop.

Extra-Curricular Activities Bring Students Together

The monotony of classes is broken by special events: the pie-eating contest at Field Day, the fall dance, and Student Government Association campaign speeches.

Variety of RTI Experience

Randy Sampson, Johnny Oxendine and Doren Jones make repairs using a teamwork approach.

Daily association stimulates student friendships.

Dewayne Johnson and Wayne Hardin work together to build a bookcase.

Mr. Morris urges his students to strive for growth.

Enhances Growth

Susan Jacobs prepares to arc weld a tee joint in welding class.

Symbol Eight was a popular band at the Christmas Dance.

RTI

To fulfill promise.

To meet new requirements,
To practice new skills,
To apply new learning,

To go forward exploring, searching,
aiming higher,
To seek new adventures,
To make the future.
Remembering the RTI 1978-79
experience.

The Challenge of Accomplishment

Practical nurses proudly display their new pins and Florence Nightingale lamps after their pinning ceremony.

Ken Norton and William Smith admire a child's set of kitchen appliances that the carpentry shop built for Santa.

Faces of General Ed students reflect the stimulation of class discussion.

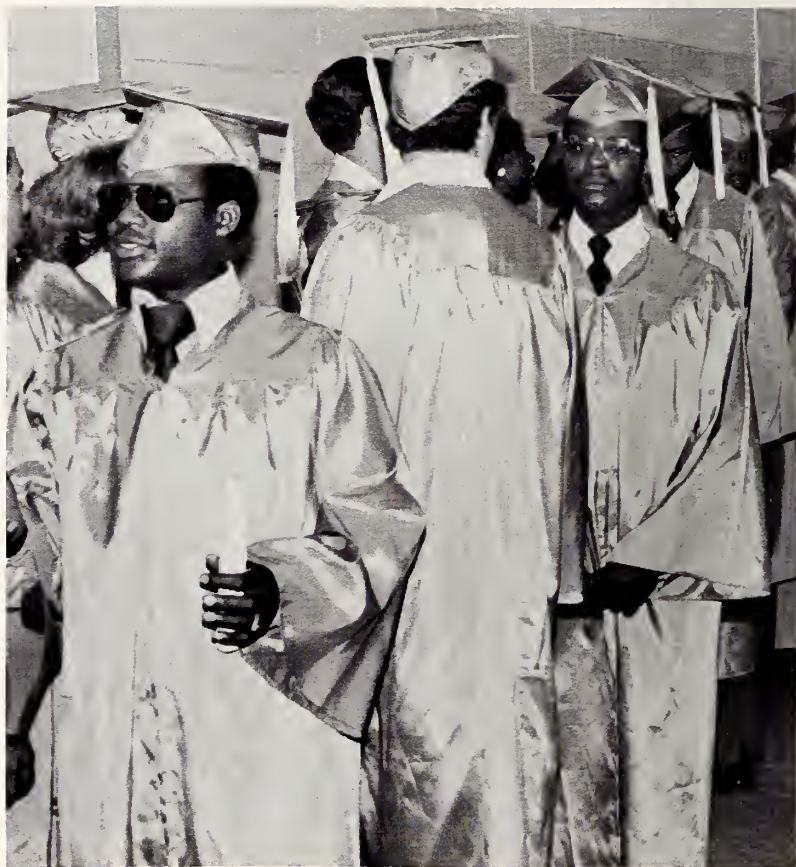

Police Science students Bruce Bullock and Jimmie Maynor stand special duty at the fall dance.

Linda Leach plays a double role as secretary and Business Administration student.

RTI: A Challenge

To accomplish,
To communicate,
To create,
To achieve,
To lead,
To serve,
To Grow.

The Year 1978-79 Is History,
But the RTI Challenge Continues
